All Sorts of Reasons For The Shortage of Democratic Votes.

BECKHAM NOT SAFE.

With Only Six More Than Enough Votes The Legislature May Cause Trouble

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 8.—"Whiskey and water won't mix" is the reason tersely assigned by many leading Democrats here for the overwhelming defeat of the Democratic ticket Tuesday. Asked to interpret this they say that while Hager and Beckham were talking temperance over the State and promising prohibition reforms, Trimble, Bosworth, Laffoon, Chenault and others on the State ticket were fraternizing with the liquor element, and some of them were making deals with the liquor people, which had to be denied in the next breath by the two leaders.

The cry of "machine" and the palpable plans of the present office holders to perpetuate themselves in positions in the State government is also believed here to be one of the strongest reasons why the people of the State turned against the Democrats from top to bottom. Democrats of prominence here do not hesitate now to criticize the management of the campaign, and the whole scheme of attempted succession in office. They say that instead of having "the most perfect organization ever seen in the State" that the Democratic campaign was badly demoralized from start to finish, and at no time was the organization anything like the proportions of the one which elected Beckham by 27,000.

Revolt Against Beckham.

The complexion of the next Legislature is giving the Democratic leaders here much concern. It is evident that there is an incipient revolt against Gov. Beckham, the primary nominee for United States Senator. Close friends of Mr. Beckham here say that there is no doubt but that the Democrats will have a majority on joint ballot, but they are looking askance at a number of senators, especially McNutt and Charlton of Louisville, who are known to be decidedly opposed to anyone who is an enemy of the liquor cause. It is reported here that McNutt and Charlton as well as Chris Mueller, who seems to be the sole Democratic Representative with head above water in the Falls City, have declared that they will not vote for Beckham for Senator under any state of the case. With these powerful Democratic leaders leading a revolt, the enemies of the Governor within the party—and they have grown to be legion lately—say that a deadlock can be secured long enough to get out a man who can alienate the big majority of Democratic members who are pledged to Beckham.

The consensus of opinion here is that Gov. W. O. Bradley will be the Republican caucus choice to oppose Beckham. Local Republicans are for him to a man, and it is conceded by Democrats that he will be the hardest man to beat that could be brought out.

WAIVED TRIAL

Before Acting Judge Parker and Held Over.

Ed Ware and Bill Johnson, both colored, charged with hog stealing about the first of October last, appeared before acting County Judge Parker yesterday. By their attorneys they waived examining trial and were permitted to give bond for $200 each to appear before the grand jury at the next term of circuit court. Failing to make bond they were remanded to jail.

FIRST SALE ON THE FLOOR.

A Large Crowd Of Buyers And Spectators Were There.

GOOD PRICES RULED.

Offering Yesterday Was of Poor Quality But Sold At Good Prices.

The first sale of the new crop of tobacco on the loose floor by M. H. Tandy & Co., took place at their warehouse yesterday morning. The sale of 24 lots was made in less than an hour. There was something like one hundred buyers and spectators present to see how the season's business started off and bidding was spirited.

The first lot sold brought $5.95 and the highest figure was $11.10. There were not more than half a dozen lots of good tobacco offered, as will be seen from the figures given below, and good tobacco brought good prices. The first receipts at the loose floor warehouse are generally of a poor quality. Lots ranged from $5.50 to $7.50. The opening prices are considered high, but ranging from $9.00 to $12.00. The American Tobacco Co., the Imperial Co., the American Snuff Co. and P. E. West & Co. were the principal buyers.

Tandy & Co. expect to have a much better lot of tobacco at their next sale and say to their customers and friends that they will give the most careful attention to all consignments of tobacco made to them and are satisfied that they can get a better price for their tobacco, no matter what the grade, than the farmer can obtain at the barn as the loose floor gives the farmer the advantage of concentrated competition.

Following is a full account of the sales:

$ 5.95	$ 7.10	$ 11.00	$ 10.25
7.10	6.00	10.75	7.00
6.20	7.40	5.50	10.75
5.50	8.80	9.50	6.80
6.00	5.50	7.90	6.50
10.25	7.30	6.00	7.60

Notes.

Mathews & Co., of Louisville, have bought the building at Third and Liberty streets and are to use it for rehandling tobacco on this market. Mr. Nat Dortch will do the buying for the company.

The offices of S. G. Buckner, the Farmers' Association man here, are to be in the Bonte building on West 8th St. in the rear of Frankle's store.

Will Hancock is doing the buying for the American Snuff Co. again this year. It goes without saying that Will is "up to snuff" when he is handling the weed.

REPUBLICANS CLAIM 17,000

Find They Seem To Have The Figures To Back Their Claims

REPUBLICANS WIN ALL

Lassing Had a Close Call And McChord Was Defeated.

Louisville, Kentucky, Nov. 8.—The efforts of some of the minor candidates on the Democratic ticket to claim their election seems useless as it is certain that the entire Republican ticket has gone through and that it will run, if any, only several thousand behind the leaders.

The complete returns from those counties which have reported about that there is little difference between the leaders and the others on the tickets, with the exception of Mr. McChord and Judge Lassing. Though the former at this time appears to have been defeated in his contest for Railroad Commissioner by Judge Tarlton, the majority is not yet certain and the official returns may make some change. Mr. Tarlton, however, claims that he is undoubtedly elected and gives figures which show him to have a good majority. Mr. McChord has not given up hope. That Judge Lassing was elected Judge of the Court of Appeals is assured and his majority will be nearly 1,000.

It is not yet possible to say what will be the makeup of the next Legislature, for while the Democrats claim to have a majority of between ten and twelve on the joint ballot, the Republicans declare that they will have the best of it in the House and that they will be able by a combination with the anti-Beckham force among the Democrats either to send a Republican to the United States Senate or to block the election of the Governor. This the Beckhams deny. They declare the House will be from one to five Democratic and with the Democratic hold-over Senators they will have enough votes to land their man a winner.

The efforts on the part of those opposed to the Governor within his own party will, it is claimed by his friends, fall flat and unless the anti show more strength than they have in the past it is likely "that the next Senator will be Gov. Beckham."

With returns from every county in the State, Col. Albert Scott, of the Republican Campaign Committee says Wilson's majority will be over 17,000.

Still Counting.

John B. Chilton, Sheriff David Smith and J. M. Starling, election commissioners for this county, began counting the vote for State officers yesterday morning. They will get through today. They took up the State vote first, and yesterday had gotten through with the county. They still have to take up the city vote as well as the other incorporated towns in the county. Of course the vote cannot be tabulated until the commissioners get through with their work.

FIRE ALARM.

Caused Department to Make A Run Yesterday.

At 1:50 p. m. yesterday an alarm of fire was turned in from East Twelfth street. A negro cabin near the Enterprise tobacco warehouse caught on fire, but the flames, which had gotten under pretty good headway, were put out before the department arrived, though the reply was quite prompt.

TOBACCO DEAL FAILED TO LAND

Negotiations Said To Be Off With the Equity People.

INTERNAL DISSENSIONS

Other Tobacco News From the Society of Equity District.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.—Reports to the effect that the American Society of Equity of the Green River District Tobacco Growers Association had sold to the American Tobacco Company the remainder of the 1905 crop, and all of the 1906 crop now stored in pool with the Louisville Warehouse Company, were denied by a representative of the trust last night. No negotiations were made for this tobacco, but until yesterday morning negotiations pending between the Home Society of Equity, a branch of the American Society of Equity, and the American Tobacco Company for the sale of the 1907 crop. These negotiations were called off on account of opposition that developed on the part of officers of the American Society of Equity.

The Home Society of Equity, commonly known as the Owensboro Society of Equity, according to the trust representative, controls the 1907 tobacco grown in that district, amounting to about 5,000,000 pounds. A plan was on foot, according to the trust representative, to dispose of this tobacco to the American Tobacco Company at the following prices: $9 a hundred for leaf; $9 for lugs and $3 for scraps, or an average price of $7.50 a hundred. Yesterday morning, it was understood, the officers of the American Society learned his plan and immediately opposed it with the result that the negotiations were called off.

Had this tobacco been sold at the prices demanded the prices of the 1905 and 1906 crop in pool with the Louisville Warehouse Company would have been seriously affected. The farmers holding the pooled 1905 and 1906 are demanding an average 1,400 hogheads of 1905 tobacco in pool with the Louisville Warehouse Company and 12,000 hogheads of the 1906 crop. The prices asked by the holders of this tobacco, it is said, would have been pounded down had the Home Society of Equity disposed of the 1907 crop at $7.50 a hundred.

An officer of the Louisville Warehouse Company said last night that all the tobacco in pool had been sampled and that none as yet been examined by any prospective buyers.

NEW ARMY IN FIELD

Mounted Men Sent Out Unarmed to Get Pledges.

Hawesville, Ky., Nov. 7.—Three hundred farmers of Hancock county, and members of the American Society of Equity, rode into town and held a secret meeting behind closed doors at the court house. The meeting lasted about four hours, after which the men were divided into three squads and rode out of town for the purpose of visiting all farmers of the county that do not belong to the society to try and get them to come into the union and to pool this year's crop of tobacco.

If they cannot persuade them to pool, then they will ask the nonunion men not to sell their present crop until the 1905 and 1906 crop now pooled has been sold. Before the squads left town each member was searched to see that they had no weapons or liquor with them, and each one was cautioned not to use violence in any case. After the county has been covered the delegates will return to this place and hold another secret meeting and report.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living, with all the terms implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

BIG FISH POND.

Reelfoot Lake Leased And Sublet To Fishermen.

Hickman, Ky., Nov. 2.—The West Tennessee Land company, with a capital of $125,000 and the following officers: James Harris, president; Sled Waddell, secretary and treasurer; and Deason, Rankin & Taylor, counselors at law, have acquired all the lands covering Reelfoot Lake and have leased the same to the Reelfoot Fish company, which is composed of J. B. Burdick, J. S. Shaw and W. A. Pleasant, who have the sole right to hunt and fish on the lake for profit. All of the fish and game will be delivered in Union City, where it will be bought by J. C. Burdick. The company will pay all of the royalty for the privilege of using them by the West Tennessee Land company, and will not expect the fishermen or hunters to pay any portion of it whatever.

This marks the end of one of the hardest legal battles in the history of Obion county. The suit was begun several years ago, but has been continued from time to time, and has attracted widespread interest among the sporting fraternity who frequent the lake.

The leasing of the sole right to hunt and fish on the lake does not in any way interfere with those who go there to hunt or fish for pleasure, and they are as free to go as in former years.

CARE OF THE HAIR

DRESSING "MY LADY'S" TRESSES AN ACKNOWLEDGED ART.

Careful Manicuring and Brushing Are Vital to Proper Appearance—Click May Be Put on Signs of Age.

Dressing the hair to-day is more of an art than it has been for some seasons past, the arrangement of waves, curls, and curls resembling olden fashions of curls, was there ever such a riot of them seen before? The drooping mushroom and falling cloche had receded to the recesses of the past. In their place, in greater abundance, in fact, than nature is willing to supply, and art must of necessity come to the rescue. Well, luckily, one can buy curls of all shades, singly or in clusters and wreaths, little tight ones and big fat ones, and no head need go unadorned. "So are those crisp and snaky golden locks."

Which such wanton gambols with the wind. Upon the careless fallowest often known. To be the dowry of a second head."

Waved hair still remains the mode, and there are a number of pretty ways in which a becoming undulation may be arranged. The Marcel at present is possible only in the hands of the expert, but a number of simple devices are sold on which the hair may be done at night for a pretty wave next day.

While waves are modish, it is smooth, shining ones that are smartest. Glossy hair is the mark of the well-groomed woman as much as careful manicuring, and the gloss is only obtainable with care and patience. Shampooing with the best of shampoos or liquid preparations is the first step toward obtaining this fashionable gloss, a little oil being rubbed into the scalp after the shampoo if the hair seems too dry. If you will use a little oil on the scalp as directed you will never be obliged to complain that you washed your hair yesterday and just can't do a thing with it. Hair oils, brilliants, etc., impart a softness and the sheen of satin to "my lady's" tresses and are always quite harmless if not distinctly beneficial. Many of the best hair tonics and dandruff cures also produce a wonderful shine and pliability.

Unless one's hair is very short and thin and easily managed it is a mistake to attempt to shampoo it at home, as so much better results are obtained at beauty parlors or baths where a thorough cleansing is assured and every possible mechanical aid at hand for careful drying and untangling.

Breaching is, as every one knows, highly beneficial to the hair, and should not be neglected night and morning. Electrical treatments are also excellent for stimulating growth and curbing a tendency to come out. There have been known to produce results with everything else seemed to have failed.

Scalp foods, tonics, and electrical treatments with scientific care of the scalp will often, if the matter is taken in time, check turning gray and restore to the hair roots that vigor which produces a natural color. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," however, and anyone who desires to retain their youth should begin the care of hair and complexion before youth has begun to wane.

HEAD CUSHION FOR CHAIR.

Intended Primarily for Wicker Porch Furniture.

Comfortable and delightful in many ways as wicker armchairs undoubtedly are, they have one serious drawback. As headrests they leave much to be desired, since the hard wicker border is anything but restful when one is anxious, perhaps, to enjoy the luxury of an after-dinner nap. A soft cushion tied securely to the back of the chair, so that it is comfortably between the wicker border and the head, makes all the difference in the world; and we give a sketch of one of these cushions showing very clearly how it should be made, which should prove of interest to our readers.

In shape, the cushion somewhat resembles an inverted teacup. It is covered with soft serge or silk, and delicately embroidered in a floral design. The long cushions at the top are used to tie the cushion firmly to the frame of the chair, while the other bows are simply ornamental. A hemstitch trim in a soft silk gives a pretty finish to this useful head cushion.

The Listener's Excuse.

If we always directly turned the other way when we heard anything obviously not intended for our ears, we should lose a vast deal of amusement.—Bob College Chronicle.

URE YOUR KIDNEYS

Do Not Endanger Life When a Cure May Be Had.

Why will people continue to suffer from agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in.

Leslie K. Hickman, living on Arch street, Madisonville, Ky., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I tasted their merits about three months ago and the results could not have been more satisfactory. I had pain through the small of my back directly over the kidneys which caused me considerable annoyance. Stopping or straightening caused sharp twinges to catch me in the kidneys. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box. I noticed a decided improvement from the use of this box, and continued taking them, using a second box, which completely cured me. I have every confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills and cheerfully give them my recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 6.—The board of education, it is stated, has decided to disallow George Yugama, a Japanese boy, who was admitted to the night school two weeks ago.

Yugama was admitted during the absence from the city of Supt. Ashmore. When the latter returned and learned of it he pointed out that it was a breaking of the racial line, which could not be done in the south. Yugama will be dismissed on the ground that he is over the school age, which will prevent the matter becoming an international issue.

Night.

When sleep comes down and hides the fears
That all day long have haunted me,
There is no peace so calmly sweet
As the old woman who sits by the fire.
The sun has faded into grey,
And now the mantle of the night
Has fallen from the Mucker's loom!

The myriad stars, bewitched some,
Glimmer out from Heaven's smiling face.
While all the furies of the night
Troop downward from the realms of space.

The great moon rises from the lake
And all the stars across the lawn—
The cruisers of the night sky
That fade in vapor at the dawn.

And on the fragrant, drifting breeze
Is sent the odor of the field,
The redolence of soft pines
Exhaled by meadows' scented yield.
From off the porch, where the hill
I hear the lapping of the wave,
And all is bliss contentment here
When I am home—and I am brave!

Ah, day has naught of worry then,
For I am strong and safe and sure
The stars glint on in steadfast space
And tell of purpose widely held.
The trees stand stalwart on the hill
By some divine hand compelled—
And all the changeless sky and earth,
Courageous hold their dome or base—
There are no terrors for the strong
Who meet the calm night face to face!

The stars glint on in steadfast space
And tell of purpose widely held.
The trees stand stalwart on the hill
By some divine hand compelled—
And all the changeless sky and earth,
Courageous hold their dome or base—
There are no terrors for the strong
Who meet the calm night face to face!

Have thrown away their arms and
And—
All strength is mine, no aching fear
Dares all my heart when night is spread!

Avast, ye demons of the game
That strike beneath the stars' dome—
I laugh thy futile threats to scorn
When night is come and I am home!

Stray Thoughts.

Follow where you will, you will ultimately light on cartoon; follow where your passion leads and you will eat crow, eventually.

A young woman never worries about the microbes on her best friend's lips. When a man gets a roll of money he goes down town and spends it. When a woman gets a roll of money she goes down town shopping. Idleness is the grog shop along the highway of life.

SEE IT'S LUCKY I DON'T THROW MYSELF AWAY!

A knife is not always useless when the blades are broken. There's the corkscrew in the back, for instance. How can a man be otherwise than happy when he hasn't a blamed thing in the world to worry about?

The small boy who asked the barber for a baldhead hair cut, "like pa's" didn't get his order filled. Pleasure loves best to come when unexpected.

Sermon.

Folly pays the preacher. All would be great by adoption. Money makes the automobile go. Hope is the salvation of happiness. Do good, but obey the law—good, respect and love are twin brothers. Love gets cold feet at a shiftless fireplace.

Beware of the dog—he may not be disaffected. The blessings of health are best told by sickness. Wealth cannot put a golden nameplate on the heart.

Fama is transitory; the memory of a mother everlasting. God made the universe, and the trusts prompted his handwork. An unmarried man may marry, but a married man's goose is cooked. The ruffles run to still water; indolence youth to wisdom and the tranquility of old age.

When hungry, beg of the man whose looks suggest he may have been hungry himself some day. The rich, having always been fed, cannot appreciate the glawings of non-sustenance.

At Last.

The publisher advertised for a circulator, one that could give the advertiser returns.

An applicant stood before him. "What are your qualifications, sir?"

"For several years, when a young man, I published a paper known as 'The Lyre.' Then I had several kinds of luck, but for the past seventeen years I have been a weather forecaster in the employ of the gov—"

But the editor, waiting to hear no more, fell upon his neck weeping: "My boy! My boy!"

And he named his own salary.

The Weather.

FOR KENTUCKY.—Partly cloudy and probably colder Saturday.

WHAT DID IT?

Opinions do not agree as to what caused the Democratic defeat. Some say it was the machine. Some say it was the dog tax. Whiskey men say it was Hager's attitude on the county unit law. The prohibitionists say it was Tyler's platform for mayor of Louisville. In the mining district it may have been labor troubles. In the tobacco districts night riding helped some. In the cities it was the wet vote turned Republican. In the country it was the farmers who stayed at home. In Central Kentucky, McCrory's home county went Republican, but Hager's home did the same and Beckham's showed a loss of 600. Hendrick's city, Laffoon's county, Vreeland's city, Winfrey's county, Chennant's county and even Urey Woodson's city went the wrong way. Here in Christian where we had the whiskey question, the night riders, and other drawbacks to contend with, and with General Apathy driving Democrats from the polls in the country, we may congratulate ourselves that they let us off with a loss of 250 over 1903.

Russellville's council ticket squeezed in by 40 votes.

Bowling Green Democrats saved their city ticket by less than 100.

The prohibitionists closed the sessions in three-fourths of Delaware Tuesday.

The triumph of Tammany gives a setback to Win. R. Hearst in national politics. He will probably not run for president this time.

Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Democrat, has conceded the election of John F. Fort, the Republican nominee for governor of New Jersey.

Maryland has elected the Democratic candidate for governor, Judge Austin L. Crothers, and the entire Democratic state ticket by 7,000 plurality.

Tom L. Johnson appears to be invincible in Cleveland. His defeat of Congressman Burton for mayor of Cleveland was decisive enough to be crushing.

The old board of councilmen was elected in Ogdin, consisting of D. L. Crutcher, Henry Malone, Ben H. White, E. C. Thacker, J. B. Alexander and H. S. Mitchell.

Returns from the municipal election in San Francisco indicate the election of most of the candidates of the Good Government League ticket, including Taylor for mayor.

The first installment of the $36,000,000 of gold engaged abroad, amounting to $8,000,000, arrived Tuesday. For a week or more the golden stream will continue to flow into New York.

President Zelaya, of Nicaragua; President Davila, of Honduras, and President Figueroa, of Salvador, met in conference at Amnapal and agreed upon another Central American peace pact.

The 14,000 striking telegraph operators, after a strike lasting 13 weeks, were ordered back to work Tuesday, in a meeting held at Chicago. The strike had been going to pieces for several weeks.

The Republican candidates in Lexington and Fayette county have decided to contest the election of the Democratic ticket. The seats of Knir and Combs in the general assembly will also be contested.

John B. Brasher will contest the election of T. E. Finley as representative from Hopkins county. Finley's majority is 275. Brasher claims that more than 300 imported negroes were voted against him.

According to the latest figures Willson's majority is hovering dangerously near to 13,000. The Louisville Times puts it at 12,921, with one Republican and two Democratic counties out.

Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, after a mysterious disappearance of several days, showed up in court in New York yesterday and was held in bond of $7,500 to answer to the indictments recently returned against him.

Owensboro went head over heels into the Republican camp, saving only one councilman out of the wreck. The Republicans and their allies even beat Henry Overstreet, for Senator by 54 votes, electing Ben F. Landrom.

Mr. Willson in his speech here publicly pledged himself to issue a requisition for the return of W. S. Taylor to Kentucky and said the requisition would be honored, and that Taylor would be brought back and given a fair trial.

When T. J. Cundiff was here the other day he told his friends that in the event of the election of Willson for Governor, he hoped to succeed Mott Ayers as Fire Marshal of the State. Jeff is a Republican and is a detective by nature, education and long experience.

Rhode Island has re-elected Governor James H. Higgins, Democratic candidate for governor, his plurality reaching 2,307, a gain of 1,000 since 1904. The general assembly is Republican in both branches, insuring the return of George Peabody Wetmore to the United States Senate.

The Sheriff of Lake county, Ind., has been arrested by a U. S. Marshal for opening the mail of a prisoner in the county jail. A test case is being made to change the universal custom obtaining in jails and prisons, to prevent forbidden articles being sent to prisoners in sealed letters.

BEATEN BADLY

By Two Negroes Who Made
Murderous Attack.

Will Smith, a negro who was released from the city lockup Wednesday, was assaulted near the L. & N. depot and badly beaten up by Bob and Majors Bronaugh and would have been killed but for interference by bystanders. They struck him with an iron tap on the end of a stick. His head was badly cut, and his left arm broken at the wrist. The Bronaughs were arrested soon afterwards by officers Ford and Evitte and put in jail. Smith's wounds were attended to by the city physician.

The trouble resulted from the Bronaugh's "guying" Smith about his recent confinement in the work house.

HINES WILL NOT TALK.

The Defeat of McCord Is Almost Conceded.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8.—With several counties yet to be officially heard from, the claim made by the Republicans is that Willson's majority is 17,000. Judge Henry B. Hines, chairman of the Democratic campaign committee, refused yesterday to make any statement for publication.

The Republicans are claiming the election of L. B. Tarlton as railroad commissioner to succeed C. C. McCord, by a majority of 1,000 or 1,200. The Democrats claim McCord is elected by a small majority. The official count will probably be necessary to decide who is the winner.

An unofficial summary of the vote of the eleven districts is as follows:

Hager, Willson.
First.....	4984
Second.....	1727
Third.....	2310
Fourth.....	502
Fifth.....	7409
Sixth.....	1118

STAY-AT-HOME VOTE.

"The stay-at-home vote did it." This is what Judge S. W. Hager, Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, State Chairman Henry B. Hines and a score of other Democrats at headquarters say concerning the falling off in the Democratic vote reported from nearly every county in the state.

"The Republicans did not show any increase over the vote for Roosevelt or Yerkes," they declared with great earnestness. "The Democrats simply stayed at home."

All are speculating as to why the Democrats did not vote.

TWO GOOD PAPERS

The Athenaeum Holds Session of Unusual Interest.

The Athenaeum held a meeting of unusual interest Thursday evening at Hotel Latham. Landlord Geo. W. Thompson served an elegant dinner. The menu cards were printed especially for the Athenaeum and contained the following delightful bill of fare:

CONSOMME—IN CUP.

Celery.
Lamb chop Saute with Green Peas.
Roast Spring Turkey Stuffed—
Cranberry Sauce.
Potatoes Rissolee. String Beans.
Lettuce Salad—Chiffonade.
Vanilla Ice Cream.
Assorted Cake. Pumpkin Pie.
American Cheese and Toasted
Crackers.
Coffee Noire.

The dinner was served in courses and was greatly enjoyed by the twenty-one gentlemen present.

The program consisted of a literary-biographical paper by Mr. W. T. Tandy on "Charles W. Webber, Author and Botanist," and one on "Alcoholism" by Dr. T. W. Blakey. Mr. Tandy's paper was a sketch of the life of a Hopkinsville writer who died as a member of the Nicaraguan expedition of William Walker in 1853. He was a son of the late Dr. A. Webber, who died in 1873. He wrote several books, was a great friend of Audubon and one of the leading ornithologists of his day. One of his frontier sketches is to be found in Goodrich's fifth reader of 50 years ago. The paper was of surpassing interest and great historical value. Dr. Blakey's paper was a discussion of inebriety from a medical and hereditary standpoint. Both papers were discussed by nearly all of the members present. Those in attendance were Messrs. T. C. Underwood, Edmund Harrison, W. L. Noorse, H. D. Smith, H. C. Smith, M. A. Jenkins, R. L. Woodward, W. T. Tandy, W. T. Fowler, J. T. Hanberry, Joett Henry, L. H. Davis, E. H. Barker, John Stites, Ira L. Smith, Barksdale Hamlett, J. C. Duffy, T. J. McKinney, F. M. Stites, T. W. Blakey and Chas. M. Meacham. Rev. C. H. H. Branch was elected to membership.

Dr. Gray,

Veterinary surgeon at Bowling Green, will be at Layne's stable, Monday, Nov. 11, for the purpose of doing all kinds of veterinary work.

Lawyer in Kankakee Asks the Court to Declare Football Prize Fighting.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 7.—Judge Hooper, in the circuit court here, today denied Attorney Steven R. Moore's application for an injunction restraining the playing of football by high school students on the ground that it was prize fighting.

Attorney Moore declares he will appeal the case. In denying the injunction Judge Hooper ruled that the board of Edu-

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Advice and Suggestions Furnished by Miss Merril.

Dear Madame Merril: Please send name of book on the niceties of society and oblige.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.

It is impossible to give names and addresses in the department. If the reader will send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Madame Merril, in care of the paper, the information will be forwarded.

Dear Madame Merril: I am going to give a party and want it to be a musical. What should be done to pass the evening besides music, and what should be served, etc.?

ROSE

Generally the only entertainment necessary is the musical programme. You can have musical quotations on the cards bearing the programme and if you wish to give favors, get the pretty candy boxes which come in all sorts of musical forms. You can serve elaborate or simple refreshments. I think a bowl of frappe with ice cream or an ice all sufficient in the summer time.

For a Cotton Wedding.

I am thinking of giving a house party for some girl friends, celebrating our first wedding anniversary, and am writing for suggestions from you. How shall I word the invitations or should they be informal notes?

MRS. HEUBERT T.

I should write letters, wrap them in cotton, then place in envelopes, saying nothing that it was in honor of the anniversary. Then at dinner the wedding day have all the decorations of white, using cotton in every available way. I knew of a "first" anniversary dinner where wigs of fluffy cotton were provided; this made a lot of fun. Down south one can buy little cotton bales that would be fine for favors.

A Stork Party.

Some months ago a description of a stork party appeared in Madame Merril's department. I have lost the paper and ask you to kindly repeat and greatly oblige one who is a constant reader of your paper.

The above request has been the burden of many letters received lately. I think the best way to pacify the stork is to reprint the "party" in as condensed a form as possible.

In the affair described there were four honored guests and six invited friends who conspired with the hostess to make the party a success.

On "the" four chairs at the dining table four bibles were tied. The favors were dainty celluloid rattles, while white storks bore the place cards in their bills, but at "the" four plates each bird had a tiny doll baby done up in a small square of linen. The table centerpiece was a gilded gilt cradle, with a canopy of dotted Swiss, lined with pink ribbons. Tiny pink posies were scattered over the table with maiden-hair ferns.

The storks were folded like doll babies and fastened with safety pins. Candles, fairy lamps and a number of little night lamps furnished the illumination, while advertisements of all the baby foods adorned the walls. These had been cut from magazines and mounted on cardboard. There were also numerous "ads" of go-carts, cribs and high chairs.

The menu consisted of celery soup, chicken cutlets, mashed potato in ramkins, tomatoes and spaghetti, a fruit salad, ice cream in round ring molds with wafers of paragon, angel food and chocolate.

The afternoon was spent in working on various articles for the little storks, and at five o'clock the hostess served what she said was champagne and aniseed "tea" with baby "educator" crackers.

On departing the guests received small boxes which contained a minute cake of soap and a doll's hot water bottle.

My Dear Madame Merril: Is it proper to have a shower for a bride at a breakfast? If so, what time is this shower supposed to be a surprise to the bride?

What would be proper for the menu?

Should the parcels be sent to the house before the appointed time and when and how would be the most appropriate time to give them to the bride-elect? Would it be proper to invite married ladies? BEATRICE.

A breakfast is served at 12, half after or one o'clock, not later, and the same menu is served as one would have at a luncheon, with the exception of soup. The bride-elect may or may not know of the shower. I think it is interesting to have it a surprise. The parcels should be sent to the hostess before hand and they should be given after the lunch. It would be perfectly proper to invite married ladies.

MADAME MERRIL.

The "Chasuble" Coat.
Automobile enthusiasts have taken an interest in the new chasuble coat with open sides which falls absolutely straight at back and front like the ecclesiastical robe for which it is named. It is made of heavy linen or pongee and so far has been finished with bands of heavy lace around the whole garment. On the fronts and sleeves it is usually finished with cotton passementerie and brandenburg. The first qualification of this coat for summer use is the readiness with which it clasps.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Giles Dudley arrives in San Francisco to join his friend and distant relative Henry Wilton, whom he was to assist in an important and mysterious case, and who accompanied Dudley on the ferry boat trip into the city. The remarkable resemblance of the two men is noted and commented on by passengers on the ferry. They see a man with snake eyes, which sends a thrill through Dudley, but he dismisses the explanation of the strange remark. Dudley knows it is one of no ordinary meaning. Wilton leaves Giles in a room with instruction to await his return and about his one true friend.

CHAPTER II.—Outside there is heard shouts and curses and the noise of a quarrel. Henry rushes in and at the request the roommates quickly exchange clothes, and he returns again. Henry has been gone but Giles is startled by a cry of "Help." He rushes out and finds some one being assaulted by a half dozen men. He summons a policeman but they are unable to find any trace of a crime.

CHAPTER III.—Giles returns to his room and finds a sheet of paper which might explain his strange mission. He finds a man with snake eyes. He goes to sleep and is awakened by the presence of some one in his room. They grapple and the person demands to know "where is the man who was killed?" He comes to the rescue and binds and gag the intruder. Dudley is mistaken for the man who killed, and resolves a note regarding money to be paid him.

Then, in the hope that I might find something among Henry's effects to give me a clue to the men who had attacked him, I went carefully through his clothes and bag. But I found that he did not leave memoranda of his business lying about. The only scrap that could have a possible bearing on it was a sheet of paper in the coat he had changed with me. It bore a rough map, showing a road branching thrice, with crosses marked here and there upon it. Underneath was written:

"Third road—cockneyed barn—iron cow."

Then followed some numerals mixed in a drunken dance with half the letters of the alphabet—the explanation of the map, I suppose, in cipher, and as it might prove a clue to this dreadful mystery, I folded the sheet carefully in an envelope and placed it in an innermost pocket.

The search having failed of definite results, I sat with my head against the wall to consider the situation. Turn it as I would I could make nothing of it. There were desperate enterprises that which could see neither beginning nor end, purpose nor result. I repented of my consent to mix in these dangerous doings and resolved that when the morning came I would find other quarters, take up the search for Henry, and look for such work as might be found.

It was after midnight when I had come to this conclusion, and, hating doors and windows as well as I could, I flung myself on the bed to rest, and I sank into an uneasy slumber.

When I awoke it was with a start and an oppressive sense that somebody else was in the room. The gaslight that I had left burning had been put out. Darkness was intense. I sat upright and felt for matches that I had seen upon the stand.

In another instant I was flung back upon the bed. Wilton's fingers gripped my throat, and a voice hissed in my ear:

"Where is he? Where is the boy? Give me your papers, or I'll wring the life out of you!"

I was strong and vigorous, and though taken at a disadvantage, struggled desperately enough to break grip on my throat and get a hold upon my assailant.

"Where is the boy?" gasped the voice once more, and then, as I made no reply, but twisted my arms about him, my assailant saved all his breath for the struggle.

We rolled to the floor with a thud that shook the house, and in this change of base I had the luck to come out uppermost. Then my courage rose as I found that I could hold my man. I feared a knife, but if he had one he had not drawn it, and I was able to keep his hands too busy to allow him to get possession of it.

Finding that he was able to accomplish nothing, he gave a short cry and called:

"Consl!"

I heard a confusion of steps outside, and a sound as of a muffled door. Then the door opened, there was a rush of feet behind me, and the flash of a bullseye lantern. I released my enemy, and sprang back to the corner where I could defend myself at some advantage.

I could distinguish four dark figures of men; but, instead of rushing upon me as I stood on the defensive, they seized upon my assailant. I looked on, pausing, and hardly able to breathe. It was not half a minute before my enemy was securely bound and gagged and carried out. One of the men lingered.

"Don't take such risks," he said. "I wouldn't have your job, Mr. Wilton, for all the old man's money. If we hadn't happened up here, you'd have been done for long ago on the street."

"In God's name, man, what does all this mean?" I gasped.

The man looked at me in evident surprise.

"They've got a fresh start, I guess," he said. "You'd better get some of the men up here. Mr. Richmond sent us up here to bring this letter."

and darkness. I struck a match, lighted the gas once more, and, securing the revolver, looked to the letter. The envelope bore no address. I tore it open. The lines were written in a woman's hand, and a faint but peculiar perfume rose from the paper. It bore but these words:

"Don't make the change until I see you. The money will be ready in the morning. Be at the bank at 10:30."

The note, puzzling as it was, was hardly an addition to my perplexities. It was evident that I had been plunged into the center of intrigue, plot and counterplot. I was supposed to have possession of somebody's boy.

It was a powerful and active enemy threatened me with death. An equally active friend was working to preserve my safety. People of wealth were concerned.

I had dimly seen a fragment of the struggling forces, and it was plain that only a very rich person could afford the luxury of hiring the bravos and guards who threatened and protected me.

The fate of Henry showed the power of those who were pursuing him. Armed as we was with the knowledge of Henry's knowing, as I did not, what he had to guard and from what he had to guard it, he had yet fallen a victim.

I could not doubt that he was the man assaulted and stabbed in the alley below, but the fact that no trace of him or of the tragedy was to be found gave me hope that he was still alive. Yet, as Henry was wounded and in the hands of enemies, a prisoner to the men who had sought his life.

As I was hoping, speculating, planning thus, I was startled by a sharp rap on the stair.

The sound was not one that need be thought out of place in such a house as neighborhood, even though the hour was past four in the morning. But it struck a chill through me, and I listened with growing apprehension as it moved step by step.

The dread silence of the house that had cast its shadow of fear upon me now seemed to become vocal with protest against the intrusion, knowing, as I did, that I was alone. At last the step halted before my door and a loud knock startled the echoes. With a great bound my heart threw off its tremors, and I grasped the revolver firmly.

"Who's there?"

"Open the door, sir; I've a wa for ye."

"Who are you?"

"Come now, no nonsense; I'm an officer."

I unlocked the door and stepped to one side. My hump of caution had developed amazingly in the few hours I had spent in San Francisco, and, in spite of his assurance, I thought best to avoid any chance of a rush from my unknown friends, and to put myself in a good position to use my revolver if necessary.

The man stepped in and showed his star. He was the policeman I had met when I had run shouting into the street.

"I suspicion we've found your friend," he said gravely. "You're wanted at the morgue."

"Dead!" I gasped.

"Dead as Saint Patrick—rest his soul!"

CHAPTER IV.
A Change of Name.

"Here's your way, sir," said the policeman, turning to old City Hall, as it was then known, and leading me to one of the inner rooms of the labyrinth of offices.

The policeman opened an office door, saluted, and motioned me to enter.

"Detective Coogan," he said, "here's your man."

Detective Coogan, from behind his desk, nodded with the careless dignity of official position.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Wilton," he said affably.

If I betrayed surprise at being called by Henry's name, Detective Coogan did not notice it. But I hastened to disclaim the dangerous distinction.

"I am not Wilton," I declared. "My name is Dudley—James Dudley."

At this announcement Detective Coogan turned to the policeman.

"Just step into Morris' room, Carson, and tell him I'm going up to the morgue."

"Now," he continued, as the policeman closed the door behind him, "this won't do, Wilton. We've had to overlook a good deal, of course, but you needn't think you can play us for suckers all the time."

"But I tell you I'm not!" I began, when he interrupted me.

"You can't make that go here," he said contemptuously. "And I'll tell you what, Wilton, I shall have to take you into custody if you don't come down straight to business. We don't want to chip in on the play."

"Of course, especially as we don't know what his game is," Detective Coogan appeared to regret this admission that he was not convinced, and went on hastily: "You know as well as we do that we don't want any light with him. But I'll tell you right now, this is a new suggestion for us."

DATE TO LET TO THE OFFICERS BY HAND ON SLIP.

There was a fine prospect conveyed by Detective Coogan's picturesque confusion of restrictions. If I persisted in claiming my own name and person I was to be clapped into jail, and I braved what Heaven-knew-what crimes. If I took my friend's name, I was to invite the career of adventure of which I had just had a taste. And while this was flashing through my mind, I wondered idly who the "old man" could be. The note I had received was certainly in a lady's hand. But if the lady was Henry's employer, it was evident that he had dealt with the police as the representative of a man of power.

My decision was of necessity promptly taken.

"Oh, well, if that's the way you look at it, Coogan," I said carelessly, "it's all right. I thought it was agreed that we weren't to know each other."

"This was a chance shot, but it hit it," "Yes," said the detective, "I remember. But, you see, this is serious business. Here's a murder on our hands, and from all I can learn it's on account of your confounded schemes. We've got to know where we stand, or there will be the Old Nick to pay. The papers will get hold of it, and then—well, you remember that shake-up we had three years ago."

"But you forget the 'old man,'" I returned. The name of that potent unknown seemed to be my only weapon in the contest with Detective Coogan, and I thought this a time to try its force.

"Not much, I don't!" said Coogan, visibly disturbed. "But if it comes to a choice, we have to risk a battle with him."

"Well, maybe we're waiting time over a trifle," said I, voicing my hope. "Perhaps your dead man belongs somewhere else."

"Come along to the morgue, then," said he.

"Where was he found?" I asked as we walked out of the City Hall.

"He was picked up at about three o'clock in the back room of the Hurricane Deck—the waterfront saloon, you know—near the foot of Folson Street."

Detective Coogan asked a number of questions as we walked, and in a few minutes we came to the undertaker's shop that served as the city morgue.

"Here it is," said Coogan, opening a door.

The low room was dark and chill and musty, but its details started forth from the obscurity as he turned up the lights.

Detective Coogan's words seemed to come from a great distance as he said: "Here, you see, he was stabbed. The knife was to the heart. Here he was hit with something heavy and hurt; but it had enough of an edge to cut the scalp and lay the cheek open. The skull is broken. See here—"

I summoned my resolution and looked.

Disfigured and ghastly as it was, I recognized it. It was the face of Henry Wilton.

The next I knew I was sitting on a bench, and the detective was holding a bottle to my lips.

"There, take another swallow," he said, not unkindly. "I didn't know you weren't used to it."

"Oh," I gasped, "I'm all right now." And I was able to look steadily at the gruesome surroundings and the dreadful burden on the slab.

"Is this the man?" asked the detective.

"Yes."

"His name?"

"Dudley—James Dudley." I was not quite willing to transfer the whole of my identity to the dead, and changed the Giles to James.

"Was he a relative?"

I shook my head, though I could not have said why I denied it. Then, in answer to the detective's question, I told the story of the scuffle in the alley, and of the events that followed.

"Did you see any of the men? To recognize them I mean?"

I described the leader as well as I was able—the man with the face of the wolf that I had seen in the lastern-flash.

Detective Coogan lost his listless air, and looked at me in astonishment.

"I don't see your game, Wilton," he said.

"I'm giving you the straight facts," I said solemnly, a little disturbed by his manner and tone.

"Well, in that case, I'd expect you to keep the straight facts to yourself, my boy."

It was my turn to be astonished.

"What's that?" I asked.

"Well, that's the way you look at it, Coogan," I said carelessly.

"I don't see through you," said the detective with some irritation. "If you're playing with me to stop this inquiry by dragging in—well, we won't let a man say you'll find yourself in the hottest water you ever struck."

"You can do as you please," I said coolly.

The detective ripped out an oath.

"If I knew you were lying, Wilton, I'd clap you in jail this minute."

"Well, if you want to take the risk," I said smiling.

He looked at me for a full minute.

"Candidly, I don't, and you know it," he said. "But this is a stunner on me. What's your game, anyhow?"

"I wish I knew."

"So accomplished a detective should not be at a loss to answer so simple a question."

"Well, there's only one course open, as I see," he said with a groan. "We've got to have a story ready for the papers and the coroner's jury."

This was a new suggestion for us.

You can just forget your name — about the row in the alley," he continued. "There's nothing to show that it had anything to do with this man here. Maybe it didn't happen. Anyhow, just think it was a dream. This was a water-front row—tough saloon—killed and robbed by parties unknown. Maybe we'll have you before the coroner for the identification, but maybe it's better not."

I nodded assent. My mind was too numb to suggest another course.

In gray dawn was breaking through the chill fog, and people were stirring in the streets as Detective Coogan led the way out of the morgue. As we parted he gave me a curious look.

"I suppose you know your own business, Wilton," he said, but I suspect you'd be a sight sater if I'd clap you in jail."

And with this concluding comment he was gone, and I was left in the dawn of my first morning in the city of San Francisco, mind and body at the mercy of depression after the excitement and perils of the night.

CHAPTER V.
Doddridge Knapp.

It was past ten o'clock of the morning when the remembrance of the mysterious note I had received the previous night came on me. I took the slip from my pocket, and read its contents once more. It was perplexing enough, but it furnished me with an idea. Of course I could not take money intended for Henry Wilton.

But here was the first chance to get at the heart of this dreadful business. The writer of the note, I must suppose, was the mysterious employer. If I could see her I could find the way of escape from the dangerous burden of Henry Wilton's personality and mission.

But which bank could be meant? The only names I knew were the Bank of California, whose failure in the previous year had sent echoes even into my New England home, and the Anglo-Californian Bank, on which I held a draft. The former struck me as the more likely place of appointment, and after some thought navigating I found myself at the corner of California and Sansome streets, before the building through which the wealth of an empire had flowed.

I watched closely the crowd that passed in and out of the treasure-house, and assumed what I hoped was an air of prosperous indifference to my surroundings.

No one appeared to notice me. There were eager men and cautious men, and men who looked scared and men who looked anxious, but neither man nor woman was looking for me.

Plainly I had made a bad guess. A hasty walk through several other banks that I could see in the neighborhood gave me no better result, and I had to acknowledge that this chance of penetrating the mystery was gone.

I speculated for the moment on what the effects might be. To neglect an order of this kind might result in the withdrawal of the protection that had saved my life, and in turning me over to the mercies of the bandit who thought I knew something of the whereabouts of a boy.

COOK & HIGGINS.

Those who wish to enjoy a clean, sparkling, wholesome entertainment and excellent music should see "Jerry from Kerry" at Holland's Opera House tonight. This is a show that will amuse the young and the old, a show that is recommended by the press and public of two countries, a show that carries a superior uniformed concert band and orchestra. The Tribune, Salt Lake City, Utah, says: "At the Grand 'Jerry from Kerry'—The performance from start to finish is good. The company is composed of some exceedingly capable people and the program was evidently put together for laughing purposes and is bright and clean and the music exceptionally catchy."

Concerning the great tragedian; who is by no means a stranger in this city, the Minneapolis Times says: "Frederick Wardle, who has won a place among the great interpreters of English classic drama, is more than a great actor, although that would seem to be distinction enough for one man to have won; he is a broad-minded, public spirited American citizen, who keeps in close touch with the current life of the world. His sympathies are not confined to the mimic stage upon which his professional fame has been won—he proposes to play his part—a man's part upon that greater stage, the world; and he plays it well."

Special terms will be made by Manager McPherson to school children, and no parent can have an excuse for not allowing his children to hear the greatest Shakespearean reader on the American platform today. Next Friday night is the date.

FAMOUS EXPERT TELLS

How Fat May Be Removed Rapidly By A Simple Home Remedy without Causing Wrinkles, Disturbing The Diet or Necessity For Exercise.

"Fat is nothing but unused energy," says a prominent physician, the man or woman who is burdened with it can easily get rid of it if they wish. All they need is 1-2 ounce of Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3-1-2 ounces of Syrup Simplex; all of which they can get at any good drug store for a few cents. Then let them take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime until they are down to the weight they want to be.

This simple house receipt is far and away better than any or all the patent or secret medicines, for it reduces the fat safely and harmlessly. The ingredients are in fact beneficial to the system, having both tonic and purifying qualities, and so help rather than distress the stomach. The remedy does not cause wrinkles, for its reduces one gradually and naturally, preserving a good outline, and best of all, needs neither physical exercise to help it do the work, nor does it require any change in diet—one can get results and still take things easy—eating meantime just what, when and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package, so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.
